London based artist, Ting-an Lin's focuses on painting, photography, and video. Passionate about art since her childhood, Ting-an Lin chose to study technical drawing at Central Saint Martins in London, which sparked her passion for life drawing, and conceptual art. Since winning Le Salon prize for painting in Paris, she has undertaken a multitude of projects with different artists, developing a special affinity to video.

Her most recent works include her solo exhibition 'The colour blind and the birds' at A12 Lab in London in 2018 and 'Violence // Silence' at The Cello Factory, also in London.
